

WEATHER for Kentucky
Tuesday Probably Fair.

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1917.

VOL. 39 No. 91.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

There is no longer any complaint of a hot summer.

The Bitulithic people began work surfacing Ninth street yesterday.

Court martials are in store for all Russian deserters who do not return to the ranks by to-morrow.

Of Russia's 400 women warriors, 20 were killed and 100 wounded or captured.

President Wilson personally appeals to the women of the nation to can all they can.

British submarines captured and sank the Batavia II, a German steamer in the North sea.

Some of the territory seized by the allies in Thessaly has been turned over to the Greeks to hold.

Belgian artillerymen have offered to go to the Russian front as "a battalion of death."

Many hints are given out that Germany would be glad to quit on an honorable basis. She must accept any terms she can get.

It is not so much the minimum as the maximum price that counts. Congress will fix one and the President the other.

Another American contingent has arrived and disembarked in France. A few spectators knew of the landing. The men entrained quickly and left for their quarters.

The news has leaked out that America's embargo on food stuffs is proving to be a vital factor in Germany, which is no longer able to get her supplies through neutral countries trading with us. There will be real privation when German gardens give out.

By a unanimous vote the Senate Military Affairs Committee decided to recommend the immediate adoption of the Chamberlain resolution to conscript aliens of military age. There is every indication that it will be adopted practically without opposition. There are said to be 150,000 Italians alone subject to the call.

Of the 21,000 physicians needed, only 7,000 have volunteered up to now from the 142,000 registered physicians in the United States and what makes the situation still more serious is that the 7,000 volunteers are not a sufficient number of the physicians who come within the age limit, 21 to 31 years. There are many older physicians among the volunteers—physicians the government will not permit at the front, and Washington dispatch.

Against the younger physicians a draft act will be directed if it is necessary. For the present the government is trying a special intensive drive for additional volunteers from the class of young physicians. Every effort will be covered by this drive. Of this condition of affairs, it is thought that the government does not accept the services of capable physicians whose fitness is in and not in flesh. A highly respected Hopkinsville physician was turned down for under-

ex. Governor Indicted.

James E. Ferguson, of Texas, indicted by the Travis county jury on 9 counts, seven charging violation of public funds, one, violation of public funds, and one, embezzlement. C. J. Bartlett, Secretary of State; C. J. Stowe, State Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds; J. O. Austin, Commissioner of Land and Banking, also were indicted.

Lost Little Daughter.

Millie West, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. West, aged 7 years, died at the home of her parents on South Virginia street Sunday. The interment took place in the Wood Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

KY. GUARDSMEN ORDERED BACK

Reservists Whose Terms Expired Are Recalled For Four More Years.

HARRY LEBKUECHER ONE

Other Hopkinsville Men Are Unexpectedly Included In the Recall.

All reservists of the Kentucky national guard are recalled to the colors under orders issued by Adjutant General J. Tandy Ellis by instructions from Washington, and directed to return at the national guard camps August 1 to be drafted into federal service with the guard.

HARRY LEBKUECHER.

They will report as privates, unassigned, and transportation will be sent them on application to the Adjutant General. All will report with uniforms and such equipment as they have in their possession.

Under the national defense act guardsmen serve three years with the colors and then are furloughed into the reserve for four years, subject to call into actual service at any time. There are 107 reservists in the Kentucky guard.

Among those who will report to the commanding officer of the camp at Louisville are: Andrew Anderson, Dulin R. Anderson, Wallace C. Anderson, Charlie Hopson, Harry L. Lebkuecher, Hopkinsville; Joseph L. Billings, Owensboro; Preston Bunch, Vernon Moore, Clarence E. Wyatt, Earlington; James F. Farmer, William H. Vale, Clarence E. Luter, Murray; Robt. M. Featherston, Roy Jackson, Roy Melton, Evansville; Luther Gresham, Ernest E. Griffin, Jesse N. Presley, Henderson; Junius B. Jones, Bowling Green; Martin E. Shacklett, Island; Albert Tedder, Madisonville; Gus Watson, Sebree; Charles W. Witt, Olmstead.

COMPLICATIONS CAUSE DEATH

Mrs. Hester Phillips Passes Away at Her Home In This City.

Mrs. Hester P. Phillips died Saturday morning about six o'clock at the home of her son-in-law, L. W. Guthrie, on West Fifteenth street, of a complication of diseases. She was 74 years old and a native of this county. Mrs. Phillips was twice married, her first husband being Esquire W. F. Wood, of Sinking Fork, who died about twenty years ago. Later she married George W. Phillips and they resided for several years in Livingston county, but returned to Christian four years ago. Her second husband died here last year. The deceased was a member of the Baptist church and was held in the highest esteem by a wide circle of friends. The remains were taken to the residence of G. H. Wood, near Sinking Fork, Sunday morning, where funeral services were held at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. L. L. Spurlin, and the interment took place in the Wood burying ground.

BOMBARDMENT OF NIEUPORT BY THE GERMANS

This interesting picture shows big German shells dropping in the city of Nieuport, Belgium, and firing the town. Nieuport has been under bombardment many times and is almost as frequent a target for the German big guns as is Reims.

HALDEMAN LOSES HIS CASE

R. E. Hughes Is To Be Business Manager of Courier-Journal and Times.

LITIGATION IS AT AN END

Majority Stockholders Have Authority to Control Both Both the Properties.

Louisville, July 30.—The Court of Appeals reversed Judge Wallace in the Haldeman case by dissolving the injunction granted Bruce Haldeman. This gives a complete victory to W. B. Haldeman, Gen. B. H. Young and Henry Watterson. Justice Miller wrote the opinion and all others concurred. It is reported that Robert E. Hughes is to be the new business manager of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times.

The temporary injunction prevented the defendants from removing Bruce Haldeman as business manager and supervision over and participation in the editorial department of both newspapers. The high court upheld the legality of that forthcoming action by the defense.

Henry Watterson, in the lower court, intervened as opposed to the legality of a private agreement by the three Haldemans in 1912, by which Bruce Haldeman was to be president and business manager, and W. B. Haldeman vice president or director until one of the three Haldemans should die. He denied acquiescence in the agreement and opposed its further enforcement as against public policy. The lower court decided that Mr. Watterson had acquiesced; the court of appeals sustained his denial.

In its opinion the court of appeals declared that no private agreement could bind future action and election of corporation officers in Kentucky declared the agreement invalid.

SIX MEN ARE SUMMONED

To Report at Bowling Green Wednesday For Examination.

W. H. Kendrick, the young recruiting officer who has been here several months, will go to Bowling Green tomorrow to take the examination for the second officers' reserve corps, to begin training Aug. 27, at Ft. Benjamin Harrison.

Five young Hopkinsville men not called before, are also ordered to go to Bowling Green the same day for examination. They are Thos. G. Kelly, John R. Green, Hudson McReynolds, Edward Moseley and Stonewall J. Smith.

Tenders Resignation.

Otho H. Anderson, one of the members of the exemption board for Christian county, has tendered his resignation to Gov. Stanley. His successor has not been named yet.

SOYARS MAY VOLUNTEER

Again As Soon As He Entirely Recovers From Operation.

William Oglesby Soyars, the young Hopkinsville attorney who came so near losing his life at Ft. Benjamin Harrison last spring, is rapidly recovering his health. He was taken ill with appendicitis, but was not examined by a competent physician and was forced to continue the hard physical training while hardly able to stand up. When his critical condition was finally discovered, and his case brought to the attention of the higher officer, he was discharged and permitted to return home. The officer put him aboard a night train and he reached home the next morning in a state of collapse. A speedy operation was barely in time to save his life after a long struggle and his recovery was slow after he left the hospital. He was registered but was one of the last men drawn for this county. It is likely that as soon as he is able to pass the physical examination again, he will once more volunteer for service in the officers' reserve corps. Having taken part of the course of training, he could get a late start and finish with the next class, which begins work August 27.

ARRESTED AS A SLACKER

Stephen McReynolds Back From Jersey Lands In Jail.

Chief of Police Ellis Roper, on Saturday arrested Stephen McReynolds, alias Blankenship, a young negro just back from New Jersey, on a charge of failing to register. The school report records show that he is 22 years of age. He says he told the officers he was 20 years old, and they told him he did not have to register. He will still claim to be under 21 years of age. McReynolds is a son of the well known colored man, Flem McReynolds. He was held Saturday pending investigation.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Grant Dickinson Jailed In Default of $2,000 Bond.

Grant Dickinson, colored, was taken to Bowling Green Friday night by a deputy United States Marshal and lodged in jail, to await action of the Federal grand jury.

Dickinson was arraigned before United States Commissioner Cunningham Friday on a charge of having sent a highly improper letter to Miss Minnie Wade, daughter of George Wade, a well known farmer of this county. He was held over to the Federal grand jury on $2,000 bond. Failing to give this he was placed in jail. Dickinson denies the charge, on the grounds that he cannot write.

Dr. T. W. MacGill and wife, of Russellville, spent yesterday in the city.

BUNCH OF CAMPFIRE GIRLS

From Trimble, Tenn., Enroute to Mammoth Cave, See Hopkinsville First.

Girls of the Nolliechucky Campfire Club of Trimble, Tenn., were in the city yesterday. They were dressed in their regular campfire suits of brown, with fringe trimmings. The girls are chaperoned by Mrs. Willie Sullivan, campfire guardian. They started from their home town Sunday morning and passed through Union City, Fulton and Murray and stopped over here for a short time. They are on a general tourist trip through West Kentucky, with Mammoth Cave as their objective point.

The camp is composed of Misses Lady Ruth Herndon, Georgie Herndon, Lois Jones, Willie Mae Moore, Gaynelle Moore, Ruby McCorde, Lucille Hadden and Blanch Wright.

They all appeared to be having a good time and are eager to get to the Cave and see if Kentucky has anything that is better than that which Tennessee can offer.

KNOCKED SENSELESS.

In An Auto Accident On North Main Street.

Henry Reynolds, a traveling man for Ragon Bros., was rendered unconscious in auto accident at the north gate of Riverside Cemetery Sunday afternoon. He was riding in a car driven by a negro boy and the car struck the wheel of a wagon belonging to W. C. Spain and was thrown against an iron gate-post with such force that the wheel was crushed. Mr. Reynolds received a blow on the head that knocked him senseless. Dr. Jackson was summoned and after restoring him to consciousness took him to his apartments at the Pennyroyal.

Capt. W. P. Sights.

Dr. Warren P. Sights, son of Dr. H. P. Sights, former Supt. of the State Asylum here, has been given a commission as captain in the army and is now at Ft. Douglas, Wis., to aid in examining several thousand men who have applied for enlistment.

Biggest Tomato.

David A. Cavanaugh, of the grocery store of C. R. Clark & Co., gathered in his garden on North Main street a Ponderosa tomato that weighed two pounds. It was smooth and regular in shape, something rather unusual with this variety. It is the largest one so far reported.

Rev. A. C. Biddle.

Rev. A. C. Biddle has accepted the pastorate of the Clarksville Cumberland Presbyterian church and will begin his work on the 1st.

Dr. Biddle's family consists of four daughters, three of whom are prominent teachers, while the other one lives with her father. He has been very successful in building up the churches he has served, all of them having many members added to the roll.

Canada has passed a conscription law.

KERENSKY HAS GONE TO FRONT

Koniloff Will Try as Traitors All Who Do Not Return to Colors.

ARE BACK IN RUSSIA

Fleeing Troops Have Gone Back 100 Miles in Center Of Galician Line.

Having retreated a distance of approximately 100 miles from where Kerensky, the Iron man of Russia, carried them in his personally conducted drive early in the present month, the Russian army on the center of line in East Galicia is again on Russian soil on both sides of Husiatyn and is still being followed by the forces of the Teutonic allies.

Likewise the armies to the north and south continue to fall back before the enemy, at a few points only standing to offer resistance. Wherever those of the faithful troops attempt to give battle they are harassed by numerically stronger forces of the Teutons and compelled to give ground, receiving no assistance from their recalcitrant brothers in arms, whose main effort consists of getting out of striking distance of the enemy.

So fast has been the retreat of the Russians toward Bukowina that already an arch-like formation has been thrown westward of Cernowitz, the capital, with the northern end resting on Weclawie, 25 miles distant and the southern end to the east of Kutu, on the western border of the crown land.

Evidently the preparations for the "blood and iron" policy of the government against the disaffected troops shortly will be put into full force for Minister of War Kerensky is on his way to formulate plans to stay the retreat and compel the troops to stand and face the foe as the Russians in the southern Carpathian region are doing. Down along this latter front the Russians, aided by the Rumanians, continue to force the Teutonic allies to cede ground, especially in the upper Putna valley.

Again the French troops fighting in the Aisne region of France have turned in vicious counter attacks against the army of the German crown prince, put down an offensive it had between Hurbise and Laboyelle and made good gains against it all along the line.

Meanwhile although the infantry operations are on a minor scale consisting mainly of raids by the British, the great artillery duels which have been in progress in Flanders for more than a week continues unabated.

Simultaneously in the air the fighting machines of Great Britain and Germany are carrying out maneuvers of proportions never before seen, with both sides sustaining losses in aircraft shot down or sent hurtling earthward out of control.

As an indication of the intensity of these aerial combats thirty German airplanes were accounted for in the latest fighting, in addition to two observation balloons which were shot down in flames.

The British war office admits that 13 of the Royal Air squadron failed to return to their bases. The German war office asserts, however, that 35 British planes were shot down.

On Friday and Saturday nights, German airmen attempted to bomb Paris. In the first attacks three suburban sections were reached and bombs dropped which caused the injury of several persons.

The attempt of Saturday was entirely futile, the raiders not even reaching the environs of the capital being sent scurrying by the watchful French airmen. One German aviator, despite its distinguishing marks, dropped four bombs on a Red Cross hospital near the fighting front, killing two doctors, a chemist, a male nurse and injuring a few other persons, including patients.

when he retired to private life just as world-fame was spread out before him.

dates for jailer of Todd county, pub-

There is a rumor that Lord Kitchthe question.

A German submarine was destroyed on Thursday on the French coast west of Calais. The undersea boat went ashore and the crew, unable to free her, opened the gasoline tanks and set fire to the vessel. The mem-and were made prisoners.

Ensigne Mlle. Vera Butchkareff, commander of the Russian women's battalion, and Lieut. Sarydova, suffering from shock as a result of bursting shells, and about a dozen other members of the battalion who were wounded during the recent fighting, have been sent to Minsk. When they reached Pottava they were welcomed by 100,000 citizens and soldiers with a brass band and carrying banners.
It is said the women attacked the Germans after the Russian male soldiers had deserted, running forward impetuously and firing their rifles with deadly effect. The German prisoners were greatly chagrined when they learned the sex of their captors.

The conferees on the Food Bill agreed to strike out the plan for a congressional joint committee on war expenditures, opposed by President Wilson, and to accept the senate amendment authorizing the President to fix the prices of coal and coke and take over mines. There was also a virtual agreement on the senate amendment to regulate the making of contracts for the government by the defense council's advisers. Sentiment regarding the liquor amendments seemed to be that congress should be satisfied to put the ban on whisky, to authorize the commandeering of distilled spirits in bond so far as necessary for government purposes, and to authorize the President to prohibit the making of beer and light wines if he chose.

THANKFUL FOR THE SCOTCH

President Wilson Expresses Satisfaction That It Is Able to Hold Down the Irish That Is in Him.

If it isn't one thing it is another, where presidents are concerned, and sometimes the "other" is very important. All of which is apropos of the fact that a Baltimorean talking with a high government official in Washington in the last few days
heard this story:

About a year ago when the breaking point with Germany seemed near, there came one day from the temperamental young Irishman who holds down the job of collector of customs in New York, Dudley Field Malone, a message which was in effect:

"I'm doggone tired of watching this blooming bunch of Germans over in Hoboken and right away I propose to seize the ships—Water-land and all—and I'll leave it to you fellows to settle matters with Germany. I'm going to do it now!"

Malone evidently was all "hot up" and Washington thought he might carry out his plan which didn't fit in with Washington's plan so he was urged to wait—an hour or possibly two.

A trusted messenger was sent to the White House and the Malone ultimatum was explained.

The president listened in silence, walked over to the windows of his office, overlooking the Potomac, and studied. Then turning to the messenger he said:

"I'm Scotch-Irish and do you know I thank heaven many times a month that the Scotch in me is able to hold down the Irish."

Malone got a 'phone message within a few minutes that the ships were not to be seized.—Baltimore Sun.

HIS LEARNING

"Did your son learn much about anything in college?"

"Oh, yes. He learned to operate an automobile so well that we have put him in charge of one of our big electric trucks."

FOR CHRONIC SNEEZERS.

Sufferers from the chronic sneeze have long attributed their trouble to various plants, the pollen of which is supposed to produce an irritation.
Many doctors now hold that the pollen of these is only a secondary cause, and that the trouble is primarily due to the condition of the system. If the patient will eat less and more simply, taking special care to eliminate acids from his diet, he will be surely benefited, they claim, and may save himself the expense of a long trip to a place free from the plant irritants.

A STARTLING DIAGNOSIS.

"Your wife, sir, seems to be subject to fits of verbosity."

"Good heavens, doctor, I never thought she had anything the matter with her except she talked too much!"

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful."

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night. I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui.

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. I decided I would try Cardui.

By time I had taken the entire bottle
I was feeling pretty good, and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.
I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well. If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise
Cardui for their present good health.

Unified Varied Writing Forms.
When Charles the Great became emperor of central Europe, among other great ideas he got himself to unite the learning of Christendom by purifying and unifying the many and varied forms of writing. To do this he went back to the original Roman model. The invention of printing came as a great advance, and at first the type took the form of a writing hand.

Fable of the Scoffer Who Fell Hard and the Woman Sitting By

By GEORGE ADE

(Copyright by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

NE day in the pink dawn of the present Century, a man with his hair neatly set back around the ears and the usual blood pressure, was whizzing through a suburban Lonesomeness on a teetering Trolley. The name of the man was Mr. Palzey. He had a desk with a Concern that did merchandizing in a large way.

Mr. Palzey feared Socialism and carried his Wife's Picture in his Watch and wore Plasters. In other words, he was Normal, believing nearly everything that appeared in the Papers.

While the Dog-Fennel was softly brushing the Foot-Board and the Motor was purring consistently beneath, Mr. Palzey looked over into a close-cropped Pasture and became the alert Eye-Witness of some very weird Doings.

He saw a pop-eyed Person in soiled, Neglige, who made threatening movements toward something concealed in the White Clover, with a Weapon resembling the Iron Dingus used in gouging the Clinkers from a Furnace.

"What is the plot of the Piece?" he inquired of a Grand Army man, sitting next.

"I think," replied the Veteran, "I think he is killing a Garter-Snake."

"Oh, no," spoke up the conversational Conductor. "He is playing Golfar," giving the word the Terre Haute pronunciation.

Mr. Palzey looked with pity on the poor Nut who was out in the Hot-Sun, getting himself all fattered up with One-Man Shiny.

He said to G. A. R. that it took all kinds of People to make a World. The grizzled Warrior arose to an equal Attitude by remarking that if the daggoned Loon had to do it for a Living, he'd think it was Work.

Mr. Palzey had heard of the new Division for the Idle Rich, just as people out in the Country hear of Milk-Sickness or falling Meteors, both well authenticated but never encountered.

While rummaging through the Sporting Page he could come across a cryptic Reference to MacFearnson of Drumtochtle being 3 up and 2 to play on Hargis of Sunset Ho, whereupon he would experience a sense of Annoyance and do a quick Hurdle.

He had seen in various Show-Windows the spindly Utensils and snowy Pellets which, he had reason to believe, were afflicted in some way with the sickening Fad. He would look at them with extreme Contempt and rather resent their contaminating contiguity to the Mask, the Shin-Guard, and the upholstered Grabber.

Mr. Palzey believed that Golf was played by the kind of White Rabbits who march in Suffrage Parades, wearing Gloves.

The dreaded Thing lay outside of his Orbit and beyond his Ken, the same as Tattling or Biology. His conception of a keen and sporty game was Pin Pool or Jacks Only with the Deuce running wild.

One Sunday he was invited out to a Food Saturnalia at a Country Place. The Dinner was postponed until late in the Day because they all dreaded it so much.

Friend Host said he had a twosome on at the Club and was trying out an Imported Cielok, so he invited Mr. Palzey to be a Spectator.

If he had said that he was going up in a Balloon to hemstitch a couple of Clouds, it would have sounded just as plausible to Mr. Palzey of the Wholesale District.

The latter went along, just out of Politeness, but he was a good deal disappointed in his Friend. It certainly did seem trifling for a Haskie weighing one hundred and eighty to pick on something about the size of a Robin's Egg.

Mr. Palzey played Gallery all around the Course. He would stand behind them at the Tee and smile in a most arid and patronizing Manner while they sand-shuffled and shifted and jiggled and joggled and went through the whole callisthenic Ritual of St. Vitus.

He was surprised to note how far the Ball would speed when properly spanked, but he thought there was no valid excuse for overrunning on the Approaches.

Mr. Palzey found himself criticizing the Form of the Players. That should have been his Cue to climb the Fence.

All of the Mashie-men start on the downward Path by making Mind-Plays and getting under Bogey.

Back on the sloping Sward between No. 18 and the Life-Saving Station, the two Contestants were holding the usual Post-Mortem.

"Let me see that Devilflicker a minute," said Mr. Palzey, as he carelessly extracted a Mid-Iron.

He sauntered up to the silly Globule and took an unpremeditated Swipe. The Stroke rang sweet and vibrant. The ball rose in parabolic Splendor above the highest branches of a venerable Elm.

Just as the Face of the Club started on the Following-Through, the Bacillus ran up and bit Mr. Palzey on the Leg.

He saw the blinking White Spot far out on the emerald Plain. He heard the murmur of Admiration behind him. He was sorry his Wife had not been there to take it in.

"Leave me have another Ball," requested Mr. Palzey.

The Virus was working.

He backed up so as to get a Running Start.

"This time," quoth Mr. Palzey, "I will push it to Milwaukee."

Missing the Object of Attack by a scant six inches, he did a Genée toe-spln and fell heavily with his Face among the Dandelions.

The Host brushed him off and said: "Your Stance was wrong; your Tee was too high; you raised the Left Shoulder; you were too rapid on the Come-Back; the Grip was all in the Left Hand; you looked up; you moved your Head at the top of the Stroke; you allowed the Left Knee to turn, and you stood ahead of the Ball. Otherwise, it was a Loo-Loe."

"If I come out next Sunday could you borrow me a Kit of Tools?" asked Mr. Palzey. He was twitching violently and looking at the Ball as if it had called him a Name. "I got the first one all right, and I think—"

So it was arranged that the poor doomed Creature was to appear on the following Sabbath and be equipped with a set of Cast-offs and learn all about the Mystery of the Ages between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Mr. Palzey went away not knowing that he was a Marked Man.

On Monday he told the Stenographer how he stung the Ball the first time up. He said he was naturally quick at picking up any kind of a Game. He thought it would be a Lark to get the hang of the Whole Business and then get after some of those Berties in the White Pants. He figured that Golf would be a Pipe for anyone who had played Baseball when young.

Truly all the raving is not done with in the Padded Cells.

He came home in the Sabbath twilight, walking on his Ankles and twibbling about a Dandy Drive for the Long Hole.

Regarding the other 873 Strokes he was discreetly silent.

He told his Wife there was more in it than one would suppose. The Easter the Swat, the greater the Carry. And he had made one Hole in seven.

Then he took a Parasol out of the Jar, and illustrated the famous Long Drive with Moving Pictures, Tableaux, Delsarte, and some newly acquired technical Drivel, which he mouthed with childish Delight.

Now we see him buying Clubs, although he refers to them as Sticks, proving that he is still a groping Neophyte.

He thinks that a shorter Shaft and more of a Lay-Back will enable him to drive a Mile. The Goose-neck Putter will save him two on every Hole. Also, will the Man please show him an Iron guaranteed to reach all the way down to the Dimple and plunk it right in the Eye.

Then all of the new Implements laid out at Home and Wife sitting back, listening to a Lecture as to what will be pulled off on the succeeding Day of Rest.

She had promised at the Altar to Love, Honor and Listen. Still, it was trying to see the once-loved Adult enervating on the verge of Dementia and know that she was Helpless.

He sailed forth with those going to Early Mass, and returned at the Vesper Hour caked with Dast and ninety-eight per cent Lococoed.

It seems that at the sixth hole on the Last Round where you cross the Crick twice, he fell down and broke both Arms and both Legs. So he tore up the Medal Score, gave all the Clubs to the Caddy, and, standing on the grass Summit of the tall Ridge guarding the Bunker, he had lifted a grimy Mitt and uttered the Vow of Renunciation.

In other words, he was Through.

The senile Wrecks and the prattling Juveniles, for whom the Game was invented, could have his Part of it for all time.

Never again would he walk on the Grass or cook his Arms or dribble Sand all over the dark and trampled Ground where countless Good Men had suffered.

No, Indeed!

So next day he bought all the Paraphernalia known to the Trade, and his name was put up at a Club.

It was one of those regular and sure-enough Clubs. High East Winds prevailed in the Locker-Room. Every Member was a Chick Evans when he got back to the nineteenth hole.

Mr. Palzey now began to regard the Ancient and Honorable Pastime as a compendium of Sacraments, Ordeals, Incantations, and Ceremonial Formalities.

He resigned himself into the Custody of a professional Luddite with large staring Knuckles and a Dialect that dimmed all the memories of Lauderdale.

In a short time the Form was classy, but the Score had to be taken out and buried after every Round.

Mr. Palzey saw that this Mundane Existence was not all Pleasure. He had found his Life-Work. The Lode-Star of his declining Years would be an even one hundred for the eighteen Flags.

Wife would see him out in the Street, feeling his way along, totally unimpaired of his Whereabouts. She would lead him into the Shade, snap her Fingers, call his Name, and gradually pull him out of the Trance.

He would look at her with a filmy Gaze and smile faintly, as if partly remembering, and then say: "Don't forget to follow through. Keep the head down—tight with the left—no hunching—pivot on the hips. For a Cuppy Lie take the Nib. If running up with the Jigger, drop her dead. The full St. Andrew's should not be thrown into a Putt. Never up, never in. Lift the flag. Take a pick-out from Casual Water but play the Roadways. To overcome Sliding or Pulling, advance the right or left Foot. Schiaffing and Socketing may be avoided by adding a hook with a top-spin or vice versa. The Man says there are twenty-six Things to be remembered in Driving from the Tee. One is Stance. I forget the other twenty-five."

Then the Partner of his Joys and Sorrows, with the account on the Debt Side, would shoot twenty Grains of Aspirin into him and plant him in the Flax.

Next morning at Breakfast he would break it to her that the Brassie had developed too much of a Whip and he had decided to try a forty-inch Shaft.

They had Seasoned Hickory for Breakfast, Bunkers for Luncheon and the Fair Green for Dinner.

As a matter of course they had to give up their comfortable Home among the Friends who had got used to them and move out to a strawboard Bungalow so as to be near the Shambles.

Mrs. Palzey wanted to do the White Mountains, but Mr. Palzey needed her. He wanted her to be waiting on the Veranda at Dusk, so that he could tell her all about it from the preliminary Address to the final Fizzle.

Sometimes he would come home enveloped in a foglike Silence which would last beyond early Candle Lighting, when he would express the Opinion that the Administration at Washington had proved a Failure.

Perhaps the very next Evening he would lope all the way up the Gravel and breeze into her presence, smelling like a warm gust of Air from Daudee. He would ask her to throw an Amber Light on the Big Hero. He would call her "Kid" and say that Vardon had nothing on him. Her Man was the Gink to show that Pili how to take a Joke.

Then she would know that he had won a Box of Balls from Mrs. Talbot's poor old crippled Father-in-Law.

She could read him like a Barometer. If he and Mr. Hilgus, the Real Estate Man, came home together fifteen feet apart, stepping high and looking straight ahead, she would know it had been a Jolly Day on the Links.

By the second summer Mr. Palzey had worked up until he was allowed to use a Shower Bath once hallowed by the presence of Jerome Travers.

He was not exactly a Duffer. He was what you might call a sub-Duffer, or Varnish, which means that the Committee was ashamed to mark up the Handicap.

He still had a good many superfluous Hands and Feet and was bleeding freely on every Green.

Sometimes he would last as far as the Water-Hazard and then sink with a Bubbling Cry.

Notwithstanding which, he kept on trying to look like the Photographs of Byers.

If he spun into the High Spinach off at the Right it was Tough Luck. If he whanged away with a Niblick down in a bottomless Pit, caromed on a couple of Onks, and finally angled off toward the Cup, he would go around for Days talking about Some Shot.

As his Ambition increased, his Mental Arithmetic became more and more defective and his Moral Nature was wholly atrophied.

"Missing the Object of Attack by a Scant Six Inches, He Fell Heavily, With His Face Among the Dandelions."

THE CLOSED DOOR

By GEORGE ELMER COBB.

I had not a friend in the city. I had not a dollar in my pocket. Everything in the way of honest employment had failed me. That is how I came to be a burglar, or rather came near to being one. Let not the superman despise me for this confession. My theme will show how erratic is the whirligig of fate, how at the brink of temptation and sordid crime an instinct of innate sympathy came to a wayward, erring one and redeemed him at the crisis of destiny.

It was by hapchance that I became a visitor to a den where thieves and cracksmen congregated in their idle moments. It was through curiosity, watchfulness and keeping my ears open that I gathered up a knowledge of the clever ways of the crook, that I realized how easy it was to make enough at one big haul to start life anew in some remote community, forget the incident and acquire a new plane for honest existence. All this was a fallacy, for my deviation from the path of rectitude would have surely held me in the toils that never let free a criminal once started on the downward path. In my case peculiar circumstances operated to lead me back to the path called Straight.

To my story: I had found in the den one night a small, neat-looking case someone had negligently left there, and when I got with it to my own room I found it to contain a superb kit of burglar's tools. The modern cracksmen no longer carries a clumsy bag. As I inspected the choice collection of jimmies, picklocks and skeleton keys, I comprehended their utility. I gratified my vain thought of expertness by prying my room window, by locking and unlocking my room door without a key. My attire was as yet respectable. My face was not unprepossessing. The police would scarcely suspect that I was other than a respectable clerk or professional man. I started forth on my mission.

I had selected a superior-looking apartment house as my point of assault. It was three stories in height, and the top floor was dark, so far as I could make out, and the presumption was that its usual tenant was away from home. I had no difficulty whatever in turning the spring lock of the street door. A very simple skeleton key did the business. It required a little more ingenuity to use the nippers in turning the key in the door of the top suite of rooms, but I made it.

I entered the darkened apartment warily. I closed the door after me and stood still, the tool case in my hand, listening intently. I was about to advance, when I distinctly traced foot-steps behind the draped doorway of the adjoining room. Then I was dazzled by a blinding dash of brilliancy. The electric lights had been switched on from the next room, the draperies parted, a man stepped into view.

"Ah!" he spoke, with quite a welcoming nod, as though expecting me, "the doctor? The door was unlocked? I did not know it. Be seated, please."

I was quite taken unawares, but I managed to preserve my nerve and composure. I sank to a chair, comprehending that this man had sent for a physician and mistook me for one. My host had the most villainous face I had ever seen. The moment my eyes rested upon him I read him through and through as a scoundrel. My analysis later proved entirely correct. I noted his crafty eye studying me keenly. Its sinister glow repelled me, but likewise put me on my guard.

"Doctor," he said in a low tone, "I have sent for you at the whim of my wife, who, while an invalid, is not in any dangerous condition. Confidently, she is a hypochondriac, has peculiar fancies, and one is that she is about to die. You will cater to her fancies, give her a sleeping potion that will quiet her and your mission is done. As I have some important writing to do, kindly make the visit brief. Here is your fee in advance. You understand?"

"Entirely so," I nodded, with a truly professional smile. "These cases are quite common," and I determined, indeed, to curtail my services as much as possible, to get out of the way before the real physician summoned should arrive.

The man led me through the adjoining apartment, tapped at the door of a third room and said, curtly: "Here is the doctor," opened the door, ushered me across the threshold and closed the door after me.

Upon a couch lay a woman prematurely old. What I first noticed was her eyes, glowing, gleaming, bright, haunted. The face was white and wrinkled. Her hands trembled, her whole appearance was that of a person laboring under some intense spell of terror or excitement.

She looked me over with a fairly devouring glance. She beckoned to me urgently. As I approached the couch she seized my sleeve with feverish haste and whispered hoarsely:

"Don't let him hear—pretend!"

I was thrilled and startled. I followed the mystery of the moment only so far as to surmise that my patient was in deadly fear of the sinister man, who had ushered me into the room, and whom she apparently suspected of being an eavesdropper on the other side of that closed door.

"Pretend what?" I stammered.

"I need no doctor," she whispered. Then in a perfectly audible voice she added: "Doctor, I cannot sleep. I am

As an Exponent of the more Advanced Play he was a Fliv, but as a Matchmaker he was a Hum-Dinger.

He knew he was plain patry for the Sharks, so he would hang around the first Tee waiting to cop out something Soft.

One day he took on Mrs. Qimstead's Infant Son, just home from Military School. The tender Cadet nursed him along to an even-up at the Punch-Bowl and then proceeded to smear His Vital Organs all over the Bad Lands.

That evening Mr. Palzey told Mrs. Palzey she would have to cut down on Household Expenses.

Six years after he gave up the Business Career and consecrated himself to something more important, Mr. Palzey, had so well mastered the baffling intricacies that he was allowed to trail in a Foursome with the President of the Club. This happened often.

It is well known that any Person who mooches around a Country Club for a sufficient Period will have some kind of a Cup wished up to him.

Fourteen years after Mr. Palzey threw himself into it, Heart and Soul, and when the Expense approximated $80,000, he earned his Halo.

One evening he came back to his haggard Companion chortling infantile, and displayed something which looked like an Eye-Cup with Handles on it.

He said it was a Trophy. It was a Consolation Offering for Maidens with an allowance of more than eighteen.

After that their Daily Life revolved around the Department-Store Bargains Mrs. Palzey had to use Metal Polish on it to keep it from turning Black.

When the Visitors lined up in front of the Mantel and gazed at the tiny Shaving-Mug, the Cellular Champion of the World would regale them with the story of hairbreadth Scapes and moving Adventures by Gravel Gulleys and rushing Streams on the Memorable Day when he (Palzey) had put the Blocks to Old Man Willoughby, since deceased.

Then he would ask all present to feel of his Forearm, after which he would pull the Favorite One about Golf adding ten years to his life.

Mrs. Palzey would be sitting back, pouring Tea, but she never chimed in with any Estimate as to what had been the effect on her Table of Expectations.

Moral—Remain under the Awning.

In pain. Please try and relieve me. Bend closer," came the hushed tones ensuing. "I am in deadly peril. I implore you to do me a service. Keep talking about my sickness so he can hear you outside there, till I hand you something."

I understood the situation as my patient groped under the bed coverings and produced a jewel case and long, flat wallet.

"Take them!" she whispered hurriedly. "Keep up the farce until you get safely out of the house. Then hurry to the address written on a card inside the wallet. Deliver these things to my niece. Tell her I shall be robbed, or murdered, if she does not hurry the police to my rescue. You shall be richly rewarded."

I made a great clatter at my supposed medicine case. I voiced a lot of medical gibberish. I bade my patient a truly professional adieu. I left the room, to be shown to the door by my host, who looked elfish and satisfied as I indicated that his wife would sleep soundly through the night, and I read his mind meditated robbery, perhaps worse.

An automobile pulled up in front of the house as I reached the street. A professional-looking man stepped out. The real doctor had arrived.

I gave my case a fling into an empty lot and inspected the wallet. It was filled with bank notes of large denomination. I opened the little box. A galaxy of precious, flashing gems came into view.

"Alice Derby, 22 Waltham street," the card within the wallet read. I hailed a taxicab. Half an hour later I stood within the parlor of a neat, pretty cottage, explaining my mission to the fairest young creature I had ever met, and her father. The latter became instantly excited. He hurried from the house with the words:

"Sir, I fear to leave my daughter alone, while the man you have seen tonight is at large, and so I had that first blissful interview with Alice Derby."

As I learned later the man I had met was the disowned husband of my patient and an escaped convict. He was returned to prison that night.

I never told the true story of my acceptance as a doctor. My patient, indeed, rewarded me—she helped me into business, and she helped me to win the peerless Alice for my bride.

"Wallflower" Fighting Term.

If one man refers to a fellow worker as a "wallflower" it is sufficient provocation to strike him?

This is the question that Justice Packard in central police court at Baltimore was called upon to settle when Henry Katz, an official of the Midcity garage, fined the magistrate on a charge of assault. The complainant was Samuel C. Fernheimer, manager of the supply department.

Fernheimer was walking through the garage when he saw Katz standing a short distance away.

"If there were not so many wallflowers here, there would be more work done," remarked Fernheimer to no one in particular.

"Do you mean me?" shouted Katz. "If the shoe fits you, wear it," retorted the supply man.

Then the blow came.

Magistrate Packard thought the remark was sufficient to justify the blow and dismissed Katz.

APPEAL ON FOOD BILL TO WILSON

Senate and House Conferees Deadlocked on Congressional War Committee.

ALSO SIZE OF CSIOOMMISM

Agree to Empower President to Fix Coal Prices and to Take Over Mines.

Washington, July 30.—Conferees on the administration food control bill reached a deadlock last night after an all-day conference and leaders decided to confer tomorrow with President Wilson on the two points remaining in dispute—the senate proposal to establish a congressional committee to supervise war expenditures and to create a board of three food administrators instead of one.

Upon all other questions the conference committee reached a complete agreement. Final enactment of the bill this week is hoped for by the conferees, but not regarded as certain.

The conferees agreed that in addition to foods, feeds and fuels the government shall control "fuel, oil and natural gas, fertilizer and fertilizer ingredients, tools, utensils, implements and equipment required for the actual production thereof; all designated as necessities. The so-called control section of the house bill, much broader than the senate's, was adopted authorizing federal regulation affecting speculation, distribution and movement of the designated necessities.

The prohibition section agreed to yesterday, authorizes the president to limit the alcoholic contents of beer and wine and to command the distilled beverages when necessary. This was a substitute for the house bone dry section and for the senate inhibition of distilled beverage manufacture.

The Smoot amendment directing federal purchase of all distilled spirits in bond was stricken out.

An additional section authorizing commandeering for re-distillation whenever necessary for food conservation or military needs was adopted as framed by the senate with its extension to distilled beverages in stock as well as in bond.

The senate's provision fixing a $2 a bushel minimum price for wheat at primary markets was adopted except that it was made applicable to the 1918 crop and not this year's, the $2 price being made "absolute and binding" until May 1, 1919.

TO FIX COAL PRICES.

Senator Pomerene's amendment authorizing the president to fix coal and coke prices and take over mines was adopted after a clause eliminating such powers to military or common defense needs had been stricken out. Provisions for "fair and reasonable" compensation to owners of commandeered coal properties was made to read "just compensation," 75 per cent. payable immediately and the rest after judicial action.

The conferees substituted for the senate's restricted licensing provision the house plan for much broader federal license regulation of importation, manufacture, mining and storage distribution of government controlled necessities. The more rigorous section of the house bill prohibiting hoarding of necessities was reinserted, with penalties of $5,000 fines and two years' imprisonment. The house section penalizing wilful destruction of necessities also was retained.

The house's drastic provisions against monopoly of necessities and authorizing regulation of grain exchanges were retained, but Senator Nelson's amendment regarding future trading on grain exchanges was stricken out. The so-called Pomerene-Walsh amendment prohibiting storing or holding of necessities, except by producer to limit the public supply or affect the price, was retained.

The senate's provision, limiting federal requisitioning authority to necessities for military or other public use, also was retained, as was its provision limiting government purchases and sales in order to secure reasonable prices, to fuel, wheat, flour, meal, beans and potatoes.

A new section was adopted authorizing requisitioning for military or public purposes of any factory, packing house, mine, pipe line or other plant producing the designated necessities. Provision for just compensation is included.

A senate amendment appropriating $10,000,000 for acquiring soda nitrates for fertilizer and their sale to farmers at cost was adopted. The senate provision requiring employees of the food administration to be appointed under civil service rules was eliminated but the conference accepted the Pomerene amendment to regulate the making of contracts by advisory commission members.

Do You Know--

That a MAJESTIC RANGE costs the farmer, planter, stockman, wool or tobacco grower less to-day than he paid in 1914? In fact, with the same products it took to buy a MAJESTIC RANGE then, he can buy one to-day and have a nice bunch of money left.

For Instance:

It took 1 1-2 bales of cotton then, takes 3-4 bales now.
It took 80 bushels of wheat then, takes 40 bushels now.
It took 100 bushels of corn then, takes 60 bushels now.
It took a thousand pound steer then, takes 3-4 steer now.
It took 5 200-pound hogs then, 2 1-2 hogs now.
It took 500 pounds of wool then, takes 175 pounds now.
It took 600 pounds of tobacco then, takes about 400 now.
It took 25 bushels white beans then, takes 9 1-2 bushels now.
It took 120 ounces silver then, takes at 90 now.

During such times as these, you cannot afford to take a chance on bad cooking of high priced foods. It's up to you to buy a MAJESTIC RANGE and be assured of the best one that was ever put on the market. The saving in fuel, as against other ranges, will pay for your MAJESTIC.

Want "Rainy Day" Fund.

The Wesner Zeitung of Bremen publishes a renewed appeal especially that the well-to-do public still fails to realize the situation and that all gold must be handed in.

The newspaper cites examples of members of the German Imperial and royal princely houses sacrificing their gold and jewelry and says competent authorities calculate that three to four hundred million gold coins are being obstinately hoarded in Germany while the value of gold ornaments is estimated at a billion marks.

Are You Conscious of Wearing Glasses?

Properly fitted, your eye glasses should never remind you of their presence. It takes skill to fit nose guards so that they will feel comfortable, easy and hold the glasses in place.

Our mountings are better than most nose guards, when the proper type is selected for the individual. It is in his selection that experience is required. You will be entirely satisfied if we fit them.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

VOTE FOR

IRA D. SMITH

For County Attorney

Mr. Smith is seeking re-election after four years of faithful service to the people of Christian County. He is young, aggressive and thoroughly competent and feels that the time-honored custom of the Democratic party to indorse a faithful servant the second term should be accorded him. He is a loyal party man and his re-nomination will bring great strength to the ticket in November.

HELP THIS YOUNG MAN TO WIN!

At Enfield, Ill., a few days ago four people were arrested for peddling poisoned court plaster. A similar arrest was made in a Kansas town a few days ago. Now comes the news that three people have been arrested at Mt. Carmel, Ill., for peddling poisoned soap.

The moral of this story is that you would do well to buy your court plaster from your local druggist and your soap from home dealers.

Kentuckian Printer Soldier.

William Jones, son of Mr. John W. Jones, of West 17th street, who enlisted in the coast artillery, sailed last Tuesday for France. He is one of 190 picked men forming the first trench mortar battery ever organized in America. He is the first one of the Kentuckian's five representatives in the army to be sent to France.

Bridegrooms May Escape.

It is now reported that the man who has married since Jun 5 will be treated as any other married man when it comes to exemption. Even if a man married to escape service, he may have a chance to be exempted. The previous ruling was evidently to deter those who might prefer matrimony to war service.

MRS. BINGHAM DIED FRIDAY

Richest Woman in Kentucky
Victim of Heart Disease—
Bride of Eight Months.

Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham died at 3:10 p. m. Friday at her home near Louisville.

A heart attack Thursday night, the third during an illness of three weeks, was the immediate cause of the death of one of America's wealthiest women, who, before her marriage November 15 of last year to Judge Bingham, prominent attorney and one time Mayor of Louisville, was the widow of the late Henry M. Flagler, multi-millionaire railroad and oil magnate, whose railroad construction activities in the State of Florida since the days of the Civil War established that section of the country in the world of business.

Mrs. Bingham was unconscious from the time the last attack Thursday night until death came yesterday afternoon.

When the end came Judge Bingham and Mrs. Bessie Wise, of Wilmington, N. C., sister of Mrs. Bingham, were at the bedside. Other survivors of Mrs. Bingham besides her husband and Mrs. Wise are William Kenan, of Lockport, N. Y., a brother, and Mrs. Graham Kenan, of Wilmington, N. C., another sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham took up their permanent residence in Louisville a short time after they were married. They acquired the magnificent home of the late Wm. B. Belknap, which is known as "Lincilffe," and here many charming social affairs were held last winter.

Soon after her marriage to Judge Bingham, Mrs. Bingham gave the sum of $125,000 to the Flagler Memorial Chapel in St. Augustine, Fla., and in the recent Red Cross campaign, her name was enrolled as a subscriber to the extent of $45,000.

Mrs. Bingham was the third wife of the late Henry M. Flagler, and Judge Bingham was her second husband. She made the acquaintance of Mr. Flagler in Wilmington, N. C., in 1890 and became his wife in St. Augustine in 1894. Mr. Flagler was 73 years old that year.

The bulk of the Flagler estate, estimated at more than $60,000,000, went to her at the death of Mr. Flagler some years ago. Under the terms of the will, however, the fortune was under her control only during the period of her life, and most of it, as the will specifies, now reverts to Mrs. Louise Wise Lewis, wife of J. Laurence Lewis, of Cincinnati, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wise, of Wilmington, N. C. Mrs. Louise Wise Lewis was Mrs. Bingham's niece and her only attendant at her marriage to Judge Bingham.

Mrs. Bingham was born in Kenansville, N. C., June 14, 1867, and had just passed her fiftieth natal anniversary. Her father was Capt. Wm. R. Kenan, who served in the Civil War in the Confederate army and who was a member of an old Southern family. Her mother was a Miss Mary Hargrave, who was highly connected as a member of a distinguished family in North Carolina.

As Mary Lily Kenan she was reared in her home State and educated at a girls' private seminary. Many years before she became the wife of Henry M. Flagler she knew Robert Worth Bingham when he was studying in North Carolina and before he thought of locating in Louisville.

Their acquaintance was renewed in Asheville, N. C., in 1915, while Judge Bingham was visiting there.

GETTING OVER THE PROBLEM

Plenty of Fighting Men But Not Enough Transports To Move Them.

Washington, July 30.—Unless the government speedily procures sufficient troop transports in six months it will have an army of 1,200,000 men "all dressed up but no place to go."

Although the War Department is asking an additional $5,000,000,000 to provide for the expense of an army of 1,700,000 which the administration expects to have either fighting or in training by next summer, there is no assurance that the government will be able to send more than a third of the forces to France within the next year.

This was admitted by a member of the army general staff.

"We shall not be able to send more than 100,000 soldiers to France by January 1 next," he said. "Moreover, with the limited transportation facilities available, it would probably be impossible to land more than 600,000 men in France by September 1, 1918. We have to have transports and more transports."

Every effort is being made to obtain ships available for transport purposes. Negotiations are in progress with Japan for the release of a number of Japanese ships from the merchant trade and their employment as American troop transports.

The 100,000 men which the administration plans to send to France before January 1 will be picked units of the regular army and the national guard. The best of the national guard regiments which were on the Mexican border last year will be the first to go after a few weeks spent in drill in the Southern training camps. In France they will be given intensive training before going to the front for the spring offensive.

Can't Dodge That.
"Do men eat dodges work," said Uncle Eben, "generally gets hit by trouble."

LOCAL MEN INTERESTED

In Two New Mining Companies to Operate in Crittenden.

Articles of incorporation were filed here for the West Kentucky Zinc and Smelter Co., Friday.

The incorporators are B. D. Hill, Lee Oldham, F. M. Brown and J. W. Downer, and in addition to these the following stockholders are listed: B. O. McReynolds, Holland Garnett; H. A. Keach, J. E. Cooper and W. H. Hammonds, all of this city, and Albert R. King, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and A. W. McClure, of Nashville. The capital stock is $2,500, which is also to be the limit of the indebtedness.

Also articles were filed for the Tennessee Mining Co. Its incorporators are B. D. Hill, J. W. Downer and Joe McCarrill, Jr. The stockholders listed are Percy Sharpe, R. W. Bratton, A. W. McClure and C. K. Hart, all of Nashville. The capital stock is $2,000 and the limit of indebtedness is to be $50,000.

While both companies propose to operate mines in Crittenden county, the principal place of business of each will be Hopkinsville.

Ready To Parley.

According to a Reuter dispatch from Zurich, Matthias Erzberger, one of the leaders of the clerical center in the German reichstag who has just arrived there declared to the Zurich Nachrichten:

"If I could talk with Lloyd-George (the British prime minister) or Mr. Balfour (British foreign secretary) we could in a few hours reach an understanding which would enable official peace negotiations to commence."

Herr Erzberger, who has taken a prominent part with respect to peace during the last month, asserts that Dr. Michaelis, the imperial German chancellor, is a peace chancellor.

ALL GUESS WRONG AT TIMES

Most Astute Financiers Made Mistakes in Their Investments and Never See Their Money Again.

Four trust companies of Philadelphia have in their care as trusts $750,000,000. It was put there by men and women who accumulated all that wealth.

Did the makers of this three-quarters of a billion dollars always guess right? Not if what a vice president of one of those four banks told me is true, writes Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

"We never received an estate of more than $50,000," said he "that didn't have in it something worthless. A large estate minus at least one 'cat or dog' is as rare as icicles in July."

Had John D. Rockefeller put the millions that he spent in Colorado Fuel in a savings bank he would have made a bigger return on his money. Guessed wrong.

Had H. H. Rogers, the day he laid out his tens of millions to build the Virginian railroad, purchased Standard Oil stock instead—he was vice president of that company at that time—his estate's capital today would be, multiplied by three. Guessed wrong.

In his lockbox, when Morgan died, were many thousand shares of stock that had no market value. Guessed wrong.

Yes, indeed, the rich and brainy as well as the poor dub often "takes a flier" and never again sees his money, even to kiss it good-by.

Moral: He is a spineless man who once in a while cannot take a kick as well as a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow.

MENDING MATTERS

Germ is found in finger bowls, And germ is found in kisses! One can't hope to escape alive From such a world as this is.

WHY HAND-RAILS ON STAIRS?

The majority of us, subconsciously, no doubt, have come to look upon handrails on stairways as a conventional decoration—a sort of finishing off, as it were. Yet last year 1,149 people were killed and more than 4,000 crippled in the United States alone, on stairways. High heels and rundown heels are largely responsible for stairway accidents, as well as trailing skirts. But in almost every instance the use of the handrail could have saved the victims of last year's stairway casualties. Handrails are intended for use, and accordingly should be firmly grasped when going down stairs, no matter how confident one may be. Scientific American.

FIERCE.

"Isn't the high cost of living dreadful?"

"Fierce. After my husband has paid his bills at the golf club there's hardly anything left for us."

WHAT WORRIED HIM.

"Didn't her constant singing in the flat annoy you?"

"Not as much as the constant flat in her singing."—Puck.

HARD ON THE TRAIN.

"Is she as sour as she looks?"

"Sour? Why, if that woman gazed aloft on a starry night she'd curdle the Milky Way."

A LADY KILLER.

"I wonder what happened when the dish ran away with the spoon?"

"I suppose it was a sad blow to the potato masher."

GAINED BY COMPARISON.

"Did you miss your first husband very much?"

"Not until after I married my second."

Sailors Say.

British sailors arriving in Halifax declared that they saw a battle between seven German submarines and the convoy guarding the American transports carrying troops to France. They declared that six submarines were destroyed.

The German View.

The Weser Zeitung of Bremen, under the caption, "Only Patience," places the net monthly losses through the submarine losses, after deducting construction, at 700,000 to 750,000, gross tons. From this the newspaper comes to the conclusion theoretically that in forty-five months' time the last merchantman will be sunk. It adds for its readers' comfort, however, that England must give in much earlier, being already obliged to withdraw tonnage from the navy for mercantile purposes.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—which vary widely—but may include pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatic pains, gout, gravel disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart debility, drowsiness and dropsy. But if you keep the filters right the danger is overcome. Doan's Kidney Pills have proven an effective kidney medicine.

Mrs. Sanders Johnson, 222 E. Eighteenth St., Hopkinsville, says: "Last summer, I had an attack of kidney trouble and suffered greatly with my back. I felt dull and languid, too and could hardly keep going because my back was so sore and lame. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. This medicine rid me of the back-aches and brought improvement." Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Johnson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

For Round Shoulders.

An excellent exercise to straighten round shoulders—good for girls or women who have to sit a good deal—is performed by placing a thin stick or wand across the back and letting it run out through the bent elbows. The arms are bent so that the hands rest on the chest. Keep the arms and shoulders pressed back and down and walk about the room in this way for five or ten minutes.

Produce Infertile Eggs!

Infertile Eggs Keep Best and Market Best in Summer Heat

Fertile Eggs Spoil Quickly in Summer Weather.

FERTILE EGGS COST THE FARMER AN ENORMOUS SUM EACH YEAR

Farmers lose millions of dollars annually from bad methods of producing and handling eggs. One-third of this loss is preventable, because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to incubate.

The rooster makes the egg fertile

The fertile egg makes the blood ring

You can save the money now lost from blood rings by keeping the male bird from your flock after the hatching season is over.

The rooster does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly becomes a blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market. Summer heat has the same effect on fertile eggs as the hen or incubator.

INFERTILE EGGS WILL NOT BECOME BLOOD RINGS

After the hatching season cook, sell or pen your rooster. Your hens not running with a male bird will produce infertile eggs—quality eggs that keep best and market best.

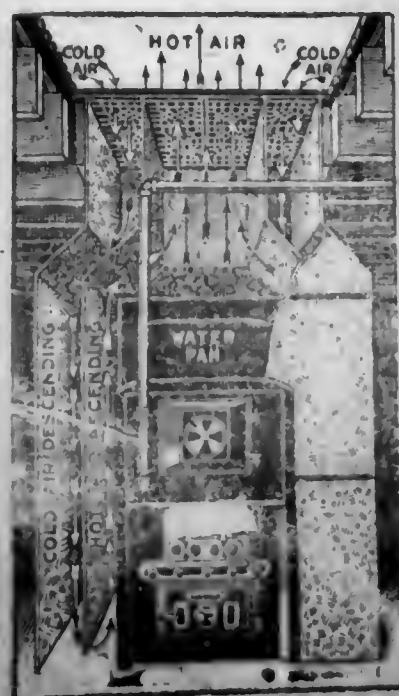

Rules for Handling Eggs on the Farm—

Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. Farmers are urged to follow these simple rules, which cost nothing but time and thought and will add dollars to the poultry yard returns:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.
5. Sell, kill, or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over.

NOTICE Valuable published information on the raising and care of poultry and eggs and individual individual advice on these subjects may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The Candelilla Plant.

The wax of the candelilla plant is used in making candles, phonograph records, wood and leather polishes, floor wax, certain varnishes, linoleum, rubber compounds and celluloid, and it also enters into use in pharmacy and in the making of electrical insulation. The candelilla plant grows on the poorest quality of soil, and before it was found to have a commercial value for the wax contained it was considered a pest.

VOTE FOR THOS. C. JONES

For County Court Clerk

IN THE PRIMARY NEXT SATURDAY, AUG. 4.

He is a young man who has shown by past performances in business life the necessary qualifications for public trust and service. He has been an ACTIVE, TIRELESS WORKER in the ranks of the Democratic party all his life, NEVER having seen fit to be INACTIVE or FOR ANY REASON TO BE A "SLACKER." He will give the Clerk's office the same CAREFUL, PERSONAL ATTENTION that he has given his private business.

The time has come when the laboring man and farmer should be represented in the management of the county's affairs, and when new, young blood should be infused into our party councils, lest our party organization fall into a state of decadence.

Because of his energy, qualification, location and the fact that HE HAS NEVER HELD OFFICE and the reason mentioned above, HE ASKS YOUR CAREFUL CONSIDERATION.

Vote For Him. He Will Greatly Strengthen the Ticket
